Last update: February 25th, 2002

Flump's got a weblog!!!

Welcome to Flump's Original Ascii Art collection!

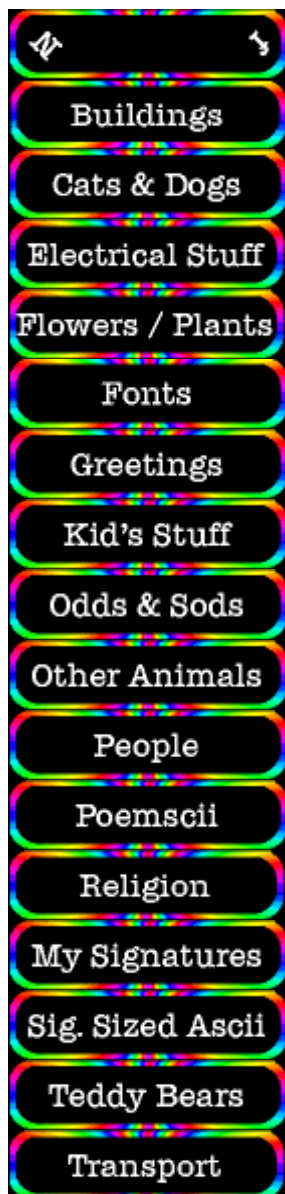

If you've found yourself at this site, and have no idea what ascii is, get yourself acquainted HERE.

If the pictures on this web site don't look right to you, or if you cut and paste them into another program and they end up in a mess, read this: it'll probably solve your problem.

I hope you enjoy the ascii you find here, and even better that you can use it! :-) If you like the art on this page, feel free to cut and paste it, and use it, keep it, or whatever. But please, please, keep my initials with the work - it's so disheartening to see your work elsewhere, uncredited, or worse with someone else taking the credit for it!

Unless otherwise stated, all the art on this site is done by me.

Click on any of the categories on the left or at the bottom to get to the art. Or, you can try this new fangled search engine to search this site for what you need.
